

Flats and shop plan for derelict town pub

HANNAH MIRSKY
@HannahMirskyCN

A PUB could soon be transformed into flats and a new shop after lying derelict for six years.

The Vixen pub, in Haverhill's Strassbourg Square, has been bought by local company Radford Interiors, which is set to submit a planning application for the site by the end of April, the News can exclusively reveal.

If the application is successful, the building could be transformed into 16 flats and a commercial unit within a year.

Thomas Brown, of Radford Interiors, said the company decided to buy the property after seeing calls to have it renovated on the front page of the News in October, 2014.

He said: "The pub has been sitting there derelict for a number of years now. I used to go to the school opposite and the area is now very run down, not helped by the derelict pub. We just felt that we could do something with it."

The company acquired the building early last summer and has been working with Cambridge-based architects Feilden and Mawson to draw up renovation plans.

Lead architect on the project Chris Read, who lives in Haverhill, said: "What I would like to see is a sensitive development that's a positive contribution to the area."

Mr Brown added: "I think it will be a positive reaction. We have spoken to the local shop owners. Their primary concern was parking – they were in support of the development but were a little bit concerned that it would increase parking."

Mr Read said that they had given "careful consideration" to parking and were in discussions with the council about it.

Radford Interiors has spoken to councillors Tony Brown and John Burns about the project.

Cllr Burns said: "I am in support of anything as long as it meets planning regulations and enhances the area."

St Edmundsbury Borough Council has recently invested in a regeneration of Strassbourg Square. Mr Read said that redevelopment of the Vixen was "the last project in the puzzle" to improve the area for residents of the Chalkstone Estate.

Radford Interiors is now asking residents who feel strongly about the scheme to get in touch. Mr Brown said letters of support could strengthen the company's application for planning permission.

He said that if permission were granted, work to redevelop the building would take six to eight months, meaning it could be completed in a year's time.

The property was previously owned by funeral directors R Gwinnell & Sons. Despite the undertakers having submitted two planning applications for the site, nothing was ever built.

The plan for the Vixen comes as the former Co-op building in Jubilee Walk – empty for four years – has been occupied by Poundstretcher. Proposals are also under way to renovate the derelict Bell Hotel in Haverhill High Street, and to turn the run-down former Project Office Furniture site in Ehringshausen Way into a retail park.

To give your views on the proposals for the Vixen, email info@radfordinteriors.co.uk.

NEW HOMES: MP Matthew Hancock officially opened the new housing developments in Haverhill

MP visits new housing developments

MATTHEW Hancock MP attended the official opening ceremony of two new developments comprising 43 homes in Haverhill on Friday.

The 21-home project in Chalkstone Way cost £3.4 million and is largely made up of two-bedroom flats and three-bedroom houses. It was built by housing developer Lovell and partially funded through a £380,000 grant from the Homes and Communities Agency.

The estate built on Withersfield Road cost £3.5 million and was also part-funded by a £530,000 grant. The affordable housing provider replaced a row of six 1960s terraced bungalows with 22 energy efficient flats and five bungalows, with the intention of further enabling the provision of affordable housing for the over 55s.

DEVELOPMENT

Consultation over old court

A PUBLIC consultation has been launched into the re-development of a former magistrates' court into a block of retirement flats.

Churchill Retirement Living has given residents until the end of March to share their views online about the proposed project, on the land at Haverhill's Camps Road.

The property developer is in the process of preparing a planning application, and it will purchase the site from Suffolk County Council, subject to the application's approval.

The proposed scheme will see the construction of a purpose-built three-storey development comprising 49 privately-owned one and two-bedroom apartments, exclusively for those aged 60 and above. The project will also feature landscaped gardens, a communal owner's lounge, a guest suite and a lodge manager's office.

NICK WILLOUGHBY
@ncawilloughby

The planned site is located on the northern side of Camps Road and access will be taken from an existing shared access road which serves the Place Farm Primary Academy and an ambulance station.

Andrew Burgess, planning director at Churchill Retirement Living, said: "We place great importance on engaging with local communities during the planning process and providing them with an opportunity to have their say on our early-stage plans."

"We believe our proposals for this site will significantly enhance the local area and provide much-needed specialist housing for older people. "Not only do our developments offer security, peace of mind and independence for residents, they in turn free up larger, family homes for local people.

"This scheme would be built using high quality materials to a traditional design to ensure it is in keeping with the character of Haverhill. If the development goes ahead, investment will also be made by Churchill Retirement Living towards local services and facilities."

To view the consultation, go to: www.churchillretirement.co.uk/planning/live-consultations.

The old magistrates' court was the town council's preferred site for a youth hub from 2013 onwards and they spent over a year attempting to negotiate a lease with Suffolk County Council.

The plan was ultimately shelved in January 2015 after they could not agree reasonable terms for the building with Suffolk County Council.

Cash for charities and groups that reduce energy use

ENERGY supplier E.ON is inviting charities and community groups in Haverhill to apply for up to £2,000 of funding. To be eligible for funding through its Energy Action Fund, charities and community groups must put forward requests to support activities that help bring about a reduction in their own energy use, help generate energy from a renewable source, or provide energy efficiency advice for local people. Suzanne Doxey, community relations manager at E.ON, said: "I'm really pleased to be announcing a fresh round of our Energy Action Fund. When judging previous applications to the fund, it's been heartening to come across so many groups with a keen interest in energy, matched by an enthusiasm for sharing the benefits of the projects they're proposing with the wider community. The deadline is April 8. Visit eonenenergy.com/About-eon/Community/energy-action-fund

Family install CCTV amid fear of attacks

A HAVERHILL family of five say they are living in fear of attacks – and have installed CCTV cameras at their home.

Mother of three Marsha Regalado – who moved to the UK from the Philippines 12 years ago – said that worrying incidents started happening around two or three years ago and have been getting steadily worse.

Last month the family installed CCTV cameras.

The latest incident happened about 6.30pm on Sunday when a youth threw a stone at their house in Downton Drive, smashing the glass back door.

Marsha said her brother, who was staying at the time, suddenly heard a "big bang" and checked the CCTV, but it was only when she went outside that she saw the damage to the door.

She said previous incidents had involved "throwing garbage and nappies", but nothing had been damaged before.

Marsha and her husband Steeve – who are both nurses at Addenbrooke's Hospital in Cambridge – have three children aged 11, 4 and 3.

Marsha, 43, said: "My eldest girl knows what's happening, she keeps on saying: 'Mum, it's getting quite scary, because they are trying to break things in our house, and what if they get in?' She's quite distressed."

She said the children often go out into the garden to play, but she is now worried about their safety.

She said she did not know why they were being targeted, but she said she thought it could be racially motivated.

Marsha added: "Sometimes when a person sees me outside the house they call me names. I just smile at them, I just say nicely: 'Hello.' I want to be friends with them.

"My worry is that my children are going to be bullied like that. My husband and I are trying to protect our family."

Sgt Matt Gilbert, of Haverhill police, said: "A young male was seen jumping over the wall and throwing a small stone at their UPVC door, breaking it.

"If anyone has seen teenagers hanging round and making life difficult, please get in touch.

"[The Regalados] have a young family and we are concerned for the welfare of the children, especially children in the back garden if people are throwing stones."

If you have any information, call Haverhill Police on 101 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

EDUCATION

Funding boost for schools

STATE school pupils are set to benefit from a £600,000 fund to boost their attainment.

Haverhill schools will be able to bid for a portion of the money for projects that bring cutting-edge education research into the classroom.

The fund has been created by Suffolk County Council's Raising the Bar programme and the Education Endowment Foundation (EEF).

It aims to fund projects in schools across the county that have shown promise in raising students' attainment elsewhere in the country and have been evaluated by the EEF.

Cllr Gordon Jones, county council cabinet member for children's services, education and skills said: "Education in Suffolk has now turned a corner and we have many more children and young people in good and outstanding schools, but we want to go further.

"Now is the right time to build on this success by working with the Education Endowment Foundation to bring the best possible education expertise and knowledge into Suffolk."

Schools can register their interest in the fund at www.suffolk.gov.uk/eeef.

JOBS

Apprenticeship event for town's young people

YOUNG people interested in developing a skill that pays the bills will be able to attend an event dedicated to apprenticeships.

The event, which is in honour of National Apprenticeship Week, will be held at Haverhill Arts Centre in the Studio on Tuesday, March 15, between 1pm and 3pm. The aim is to provide participants with information and advice on how to find an apprenticeship scheme.

Karen Chapple, youth skills manager of One Haverhill, which works in partnership with Haverhill Town Council, said it was aimed at young people and there would be an emphasis on one-to-one attention.

"We are encouraging any young person who is currently looking for an apprenticeship opportunity or who would like to know more about the scheme to come along and meet us," she said.

NICK WILLOUGHBY

"We will also be giving advice on CV writing and covering letters. We have found that more school and college leavers are now taking up apprenticeships as A-levels, FE College Courses and university are no longer seen as the only route to a successful career."

Representatives from Cambridge Regional College and West Suffolk College will be on hand to provide information about how to get involved in the schemes.

Young people will also be encouraged to register with Haverhill Youth Services, which Karen said can provide a "bespoke" service catering to an individual's specific needs.

She added: "Apprenticeships allow people to gain a qualification in the workplace and also earn a wage, whilst working alongside experienced staff to gain job-specific skills."

She said the event was an intentional departure from a job fair, where some young people can feel intimidated by the number of big businesses.

Local businesses will be able to attend between 4pm and 6pm, to meet and discuss if an apprentice would benefit their place of work.

"We have had great success with apprenticeships in Haverhill so far," said Karen. "And I'm really confident that this will continue to grow."

Owner told he must pay £5k to heat garage

NEW RULES: Jon Van Niekerk has been told he will have to give up his waste oil burner or pay up

A GARAGE owner is "up in arms" after being told to pay £5,000 to heat his workshop.

Jon Van Niekerk, who runs Technics Motors in Haverhill's Homefield Road, has used a waste oil burner to heat the garage and get rid of used motor oil for the last 15 years.

"It was a godsend because everyone kept warm and we used the oil," he said.

But on February 16, Mr Van Niekerk received a letter saying that by the end of March he would have to either give up the heater – or pay more than £5,000 under a new licensing scheme.

"I was up in arms when I first saw it," he said.

The letter, from St Edmundsbury Borough Council environment officer Andrew Southwood, states that if Mr Van Niekerk wants to keep the waste oil burner running, he will have to pay an application fee of £3,218, followed by an annual subsistence charge of £1,384 and an annual stock monitoring charge of around £900.

HANNAH MIRSKY

"It just seems like a colossal amount of money," said Mr Van Niekerk. "Even if we changed our whole heating system we would never go through that kind of money."

In 2015-16, the annual fee that waste oil burner users paid the borough council was £76.

He said that changing the garage's heating system could cost thousands of pounds, and added that businesses that had previously disposed of waste oil in a heater would now have to pay to have it taken away.

He said: "As the years go on it could open up fly-tipping, rivers being contaminated."

The change is part of a government decision to try and reduce emissions from waste oil burnt as fuel. A spokesman for the Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (DEFRA) said that the level the fees were set at reflected how much work regulators have to do to be "effective, efficient and consistent" in their work.

He said that burners could still be used to burn non-waste fuels such as fuel oil without a permit.

A spokesperson for the borough council said the change was announced on December 22 by DEFRA in response to the EU industrial emissions directive.

She added: "Since the announcement and together with colleagues county-wide, we have devoted time to finding how we could reduce this impact on small businesses, but without success. Two weeks ago we wrote to those using old oil to tell them about the changes. This gives time for them to make alternative arrangements and to store the used oil for collection."

EDUCATION

Children get first choice schools

JUST UNDER 93 per cent of parents and carers who sent applications indicating which secondary school they would prefer their child to be educated at in Year 7 have received their first choice. Suffolk County Council, which received more than 7,000 forms in preparation for September's start, also said 98 per cent of applicants received an offer for one of their top three schools – which equates to a figure of 6,976 pupils.

Any parents or carers with children born between September 1, 2004, and August 31, 2005, and who have not yet applied for a school place are advised to contact Suffolk County Council on 0345 600 0981.

Help drivers stay safe

AS there will be no dualling of the A1307, perhaps there could be some strategically sited roundabouts at accident hotspots; signs showing drivers how to filter two lanes of traffic into one (they have them in New Zealand); and painted chevrons in an attempt to keep vehicles safely spaced and within the speed limit. And while they're at it, we could do with a yellow box to prevent traffic from Withersfield Road blocking Wratting Road when the Tesco lights are red.

Your readers might like to know that they can get involved with Target Ovarian Cancer's fundraising efforts in loads of ways throughout the month. We're getting friends and family together to 'bake some noise' with coffee mornings and afternoon teas to tickle the tastebuds. Or maybe you'd prefer to 'dress louder' and impress friends and colleagues at work or school by wearing something shocking – whether that's your tackiest tie or striped socks. Whatever you raise, you'll be helping – £50 could help 200 people to learn about the symptoms of ovarian cancer. And £100 could enable 200 GPs to update their knowledge of ovarian cancer. Target Ovarian Cancer is offering readers free balloons, posters and symptoms information to make your fundraising a success – call 020 7923 5474 or visit www.targetovariancancer.org.uk/startmakingnoise. Shout about the symptoms. Early diagnosis saves lives. Gaby Roslin, Target Ovarian Cancer ambassador

COCKTAIL EVENING: On March 12 there will be a cocktail evening in the sports pavilion from 8pm – midnight.

It is suggested that smart suits and dresses are worn but this is optional. Joe Fryd will be the singer and entertainer. Tickets from Mandy Clarke on 07989 616003 or (01223) 892852.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY: Ken Drake gave one of his popular talks on different areas of London at the Historical Society meeting on February 16.

He spoke about the history of Trafalgar Square. Ken, who is a retired teacher, brought along some photos to show the group. In the past he was shown a book of photos of old London in the 1930s and it interested him so much he did a lot of research into London's history.

TREE PLANTING: A group of 30 volunteers turned up with spades and watering cans on February 19 to help plant 11 trees in the new community orchard at the back of Crabtree Croft. The trees are cherry, plum etc. South Cambridge District Council provided the trees and gave permission for them to be planted on the land.

Weston Colville

CINEMA CLUB: The club will be run by Jacqueline Douglas and Jeremy Newton from March, due to the imminent departure of Laurence Staig.

They are delighted to be continuing with the monthly club that Laurence has established and to do it on the same basis, the two of them taking it in turns month by month to introduce the film.

To help get the club going, the Reading Room Trust initially made no hire charge and it is now expected to pay its way. Entry will still be by donation, suggested amount £3 which is slightly higher to cover Reading Room hire, use of the projector, and the cost of purchasing the film.

The April film, on Wednesday, April 6, at 7.30 pm, will be 'The Third Man', film noir made in Britain, set in Vienna, and starring Orson Welles.

To hand over the baton, Laurence has kindly passed on a list of suggested titles to see the club through the year and the choice of 'The Third Man' continues his chief criterion when choosing films for the Cinema Club – it's one of the greatest films of all time.

It's celebrated for its acting, musical score and atmospheric cinematography and if that's not enough, it's all based on the screenplay written by Graham Greene, one of the country's greatest novelists. Refreshments will be served, and all are welcome.

Residents put in bid to save village's only pub

HANNAH MIRSKY
@HannahMirskyCN

VILLAGERS have put in a bid to save their local pub.

The Cock in Thurlow closed its doors earlier this month and residents fear that if it is sold on the commercial market it could be converted into homes.

Chair of the pub bid committee, Alison Coffey, said: "If it's successful then it's the first stage of saving the pub to remain as a community pub."

"It's just really essential, having lost our shop and post office, that we don't lose the pub. And we are looking to make it more part of the community, and at the concept of having a more cafe culture for part of the day."

The committee of villagers put in the bid on Friday, using funds raised from residents pledging money for shares in the pub.

Although the committee could not reveal the value of the bid, its previous estimate of how much it would need to raise was £360,000.

Saturday marked the deadline

NEW HOPE: Residents want to turn The Cock in Thurlow into a community-run asset for the community to put in a bid before the property was put on the general market.

Ms Coffey said: "It's very good to be moving forward and we just hope it's successful."

The villagers do not know when they will hear if the bid is successful. If it is, the next step will be to appoint a manager.

The villagers are also hoping that if they do take over The Cock they may be able to reinstate a basic village shop or post office in the pub itself, and host more community events.

They are also hoping to improve the food and ale offerings in order to make it a "destination pub", which will attract people from across the local area.

The Cock has been catering for locals for 400 years, starting life as a 17th century coaching inn and is now the only pub in Thurlow.

The bid to save the pub has been backed by West Suffolk MP Matthew Hancock, who said The Cock was "at the heart of village life".

If the villagers' bid on the pub is successful, it is likely that the business will be run as a core community benefit society, meaning that any profit made would be ploughed back into the community.

HEALTH

Help design healthcare for diabetes

RESIDENTS are being invited to help decide how diabetes services in West Suffolk will be run.

At a workshop at Haverhill Health Centre in Camps Road on Tuesday, March 8, residents will have the chance to help decide what diabetes care in the region will look like.

The design of the new service will be based on previous patient feedback and evaluation of the current service, as well as thinking about how to best provide support for patients and carers.

The workshop – which will also look at what data should be recorded to monitor the success of the service – is a follow-up to another session in January when patients gave feedback on diabetes care.

The new workshop is being run four times. On March 8, the workshop at Haverhill Health Centre will be held at 9am, followed by a 2pm session at the Hyndman Centre in Bury St Edmunds.

The workshop will be talking place again at the Bridge Project in Sudbury and West Suffolk House in Bury St Edmunds on April 6.

To find out more or book a place, email gail.cardy@westsuffolkccg.nhs.uk, stating which workshop you would like to attend.

HEALTH

FUND-RAISING:
Cllr Betty McLatchy has been campaigning for better health provision for the town and has raised sufficient money so that an ultrasound machine will be ordered in the next few weeks

Town to get vital health equipment

EQUIPMENT which could save the lives of residents is set to be ordered within six weeks.

An ultrasound machine is being bought after the Mayor of Haverhill, Cllr Betty McLatchy, raised £19,200 in donations.

The machine, which scans the human body, can help detect life-threatening conditions.

Cllr McLatchy, who is a trained nurse, set up the Haverwell Community Wellbeing fund to raise money for the machine more than a year ago.

She said: "You can have your dog or your cat scanned in Haverhill, you can have your teeth scanned, but you can't have anything done at the doctor's."

She added: "It can scan all of the body's organs. A terrific use is finding aortic aneurysms. They need rapid treatment."

Cllr McLatchy has been tirelessly fundraising for the machine, holding events such as raffles and market stalls.

The proceeds from her mayor's Valentine Ball, held last month at Haverhill Arts Centre, went towards the project.

The Haverwell fund has also received donations from local community groups such as the Withersfield Bowls Club, which raised £1,600 for the project.

Once the ultrasound machine arrives, Cllr McLatchy is hoping to find a town centre location for it and have staff trained to use it.

She cannot currently release details of when it will be ready for medical use, and its likely availability for patient scans.

HANNAH MIRSKY
@HannahMirskyCN

Cllr McLatchy said that Haverhill had recently received an echocardiogram, which scans patients' hearts.

She said: "We have got the beginnings of a sort of diagnostics centre."

"In an ideal world we would have a clinic here dealing with the walking wounded."

Cllr McLatchy plans to continue fundraising after the ultrasound machine has been bought to pay for training and running costs, as well as other improvements to health services in Haverhill.

As part of her efforts to improve the healthcare available in Haverhill, she has been running out-of-hours first aid drop-in sessions at the Burton Centre in Camps Road. The aim – as well as treating patients – was to show that a walk-in clinic for minor complaints would be a useful service in Haverhill.

Cllr McLatchy said: "It was very tiring but it proved a point and I was delighted to be able to do that."

The town has not had any drop-in medical services since the Crown Health Centre shut down in 2012.

HAVERHILL HEROES

Three finalists for our act of kindness award

HANNAH MIRSKY
@HannahMirskyCN

A LOLLIPOP man, a team leader for a community project and a girl who looks after her elderly neighbour have all been nominated for an award for their acts of kindness.

Burton End lollipop man Trevor Brooks, Suffolk Mind worker Sarah Savine and 7-year-old schoolgirl Ji-Sun Munro are all finalists in the category, which is part of the Haverhill Heroes Awards being run by the Castle Partnership Academy Trust, in conjunction with the Haverhill News.

Trevor, who is well past retirement age at 73, works every morning and afternoon as the lollipop man for Burton End School. He has been doing the job for five years and his wife is also a lollipop lady, on the Clements Estate.

He said he was 'shocked but pleased' to be a finalist.

Sarah runs weekly sessions at Suffolk Mind's Haverhill allotment off Withersfield Road, which help people's mental wellbeing by getting them outdoors, moving around and bonding with others.

Sarah said: "What I really like is watching friendships grow – they really become a team." She said the whole team was "completely delighted with the nomination".

The third finalist is schoolgirl Ji-Sun, who, aged just 7, goes round to her elderly neighbour, Laurel's house every day to make her a cup of coffee and have a chat, as well as doing small chores such as putting shopping away and washing up.

Her mum Sam Munro said: "She just thinks it's the right thing to do."

The winner will be announced, together with champions in the other categories, at an awards ceremony on March 25.

BUSINESS

48 factory jobs in the balance

A MAJOR Haverhill employer could be axing 48 jobs – if a change it is consulting on goes ahead.

International Flavours and Fragrances (IFF), which runs a factory in Duddery Hill, is discussing the possibility of moving some of its flavour production activities to the Netherlands.

The changes – suggested as part of a review of the international company's operations – could mean the loss of up to 48 jobs at the Haverhill site.

The changes being suggested involve moving the production of liquid flavours and spray dry activities to a factory in Tilburg, meaning that jobs in these areas would be axed at the UK factory.

Manager of the Haverhill IFF site, Rob Berry, said that during the consultation period he was not able to disclose what support would be provided for any employees who were made redundant.

HANNAH MIRSKY

dant if the changes come into force.

He said: "These are things that we are currently discussing with workforce representatives."

But some jobs could be created during any change. The company is considering expanding its powder flavour production at the Duddery Hill factory, which could lead to nine new jobs, meaning 39 jobs would be lost overall.

Mr Berry said: "What we are looking at doing is moving the liquid product line and then expanding the powder product line. This could result in a loss of a net 39 jobs."

The company is consulting with the union Unite and employee representatives until the end of March with final plans about possible job losses announced in early April.

Mr Berry said: "Around about [March] 21 we would be ending consultation and after that there would be a period of review. We would not be looking at a definitive result until early April."

The factory currently employs 265 people, meaning that almost a fifth of the total jobs at the site are under threat.

The news comes after it was announced in November that 57 jobs at drug manufacturer Sanofi's factory in Rookwood Way, Haverhill, were set to be axed.

But jobs are also set to be created in the town, with the Haverhill Retail Park planned for Ehringshausen Way set to provide 250 full- and part-time roles.

What do you think about the possible job losses? Have your say at cambridge-news.co.uk/haverhill

FIRST AID: Castle Manor students learning how to deal with injuries

Pupils learn skills for an emergency

STUDENTS preparing to go on an expedition have been taught valuable first aid skills.

Castle Manor Academy students preparing for a Duke of Edinburgh expedition in the summer were taught how to bandage and dress injuries, put people in the recovery position and administer CPR.

Community first responder Juliet Jones, who ran the workshop, also discussed what to do in an emergency and how to help each other in challenging situations.

This is only the second year that Castle Manor has been running the Duke of Edinburgh Award scheme. As part of it, students are volunteering at the Haverhill food bank and Sandcastle nursery.

Chance for youngsters to try market trading

HANNAH MIRSKY
@HannahMirskyCN

THE first ever youth bring-and-buy sale in West Suffolk will take place in Haverhill next month.

The event will give young people aged 12 to 18 the opportunity to try out market trading and get rid of unwanted items at the same time.

Youngsters can apply for a free stall at the April 9 event and take along used items that they no longer need, such as books, CDs, sport equipment and clothes. They will be encouraged to display the items as though they are running a market stall.

West Suffolk councils' markets officer, Sharon Fairweather, said: "It gives them an idea of what's involved in business. Market trading is a great way of starting your own business because the overheads are so low."

She said that it was the first time a youth bring-and-buy sale had taken place in West Suffolk. If it is successful similar events will be rolled out across Forest Heath and St Edmundsbury.

BUSTLING: The successful Haverhill youth market, which has led to the first youth bring-and-buy sale
Picture: David Johnson

The sale comes after Haverhill's youth market has been held successfully for two years running.

The youth market is an opportunity for 18 to 23-year-olds to try out market trading, and the bring and buy sale has been launched to open up similar experiences to a younger age group.

Cllr Alaric Pugh, cabinet member for planning and growth at St Edmundsbury Borough Council, said: "We have already held some very successful youth markets in Haverhill. This is another initiative that we are trying to encourage young people onto the market where they can be part of the hustle and bustle of running their own stall."

The event is open to any 12 to 18-year-olds in the Haverhill area, although those aged under 16 must be accompanied by an adult.

To apply or find out more, contact Sharon by calling (01284) 757 093 or emailing sharon.fairweather@westsuffolk.gov.uk.

History of life at work is recorded

A PROJECT which aims to produce a record of working life in Haverhill over the last 60 years is going from strength to strength.

The "Haverhill at Work" project is run by the Haverhill Family History Group and supported by community partnership ONE Haverhill. The project involves conducting group interviews with people who have worked for a variety of Haverhill employers before making audio and video recordings of one-on-one interviews with selected employees. The interviewers hope to compile their recordings into a "digital archive" that future historians can access.

Group interviews have already been conducted for employees of Pye Telecom, Addis Wisdom, Halliburton, Project Office Furniture, Hille and RA. The next group interview session is for people who have worked at Gurtens and will take place on Thursday, March 10, from 2pm to 4pm in the studio at Haverhill Arts Centre. This is set to be followed by a session for Marchants and Signpost Paints workers on March 17 and for IFF employees on April 4.

You can simply drop in for a cup of coffee and a chat. For more information email haverhillfhg@suffolkfhs.co.uk

highLIGHTS

■ PURE Floyd play Newmarket Memorial Hall on Saturday, as the latest in the series of Cambridge Rock Festival support events. As well as the music, and the impressive lighting and laser show, there will be the CRF's trademark real ale bar too. Wish you were there? Then call (01353) 749749 or visit cambridgerockfestival.co.uk for tickets.

■ HUSBAND and wife team Kathryn Roberts and Sean Lakeman (BBC Folk Award Best Duo nominees this year, and winners from 2013) bring their popular folk harmonies and songs from their new mini-album Saved For A Rainy Day to the Junction 2 this Monday, March 7. See junction.co.uk to grab tickets for this literally harmoniously-married pair.

■ PACKING a punch, with gang vocals, bags of vitality and volume and a way with amplification, Ducking Punches have a soaring sound that, with each release, just seems to keep getting... bigger, as evidenced by their latest, Fizzy Brain. Catch the Norwich punk-slash-rock quintet at The Portland this Wednesday, March 10. Details and tickets from greenmind.co.uk.

■ ARVO Pärt's choral masterpiece Te Deum – which has been described as “exceedingly beautiful” and “an intensely moving experience” will be performed by the Cambridge Philharmonic Orchestra this Saturday, March 5, along with Duruflé's much-loved Requiem, also based on evocative Gregorian Chant. ■ Harry is something of a local celebrity in his small pub in Oldham but what's the second best hangman in England to do on the day they've abolished hanging? Amongst the reporters and pub regulars that descend upon him, his old assistant Syd and the peculiar Mooney lurk with very different motives. If you appreciate a bit of gallows humour tonight at 7pm, join the arts centre audience for Hangmen, an NT Live, live broadcast that has been lauded as the 'funniest play of the year'.

■ Probably the most entertaining group to come out of the 1960s and 70s, The Barron Knights, hit Haverhill tomorrow at 8pm with The Soundtrack of Our Lives. Apart from the old favourites like Call Up The Groups, the Knights play their inimitable version of The William Tell Overture plus their hilarious take on Windmills Of Your Mind about what happens to your body as you get older, plus much more.

■ Stoke College returns to the arts centre on Tuesday, March 8 and Thursday, March 10, at 7pm with MC Beth, a tale of competition for the top spot in the 1980's music mixing industry.

■ On the cinema front if you missed The Good Dinosaur (PG) in February, you can catch an autism-friendly showing on today at 10am. In a world where dinosaurs and humans live side-by-side, an Apatosaurus named Arlo makes a human friend. Oscar and BAFTA award winner Leonardo DiCaprio stars in The Revenant (15), a compelling study of one man's determination to live, on Wednesday, March 9, at 7.30pm. This is a story of betrayal, survival and vengeance in the early 19th century. While exploring the uncharted wilderness in 1823, legendary trapper Hugh Glass sustains injuries from a brutal bear attack. When his hunting team leaves him for dead, he must find a way back home. Grief-stricken and fuelled by vengeance, Glass treks through the wintry terrain to track down John Fitzgerald the former confidant who abandoned him. Makes me thankful for supermarket deliveries and central heating!

Centre Stage Company brings Abigail's Party to the arts centre from Thursday, March 17, to Saturday, March 19, at 7.30pm with a matinee at 2.30pm on the Saturday. Guffaws, and cringes all round!

FORD: New Kuga is pretty cute

Ford adds Vignale and new Kuga to Show

FORD will reveal new vehicles and customer services for its upscale Vignale line and a further expanded performance line-up at the 2016 Geneva Motor Show.

Ford will dedicate its show stand on March 1 to an extended Vignale product line-up that offers superior refinement, unique design and advanced technologies.

Ford of Europe Chairman and CEO Jim Farley will host a news conference at 13.00 CET (12.00 GMT), March 1, at the Ford stand, Hall 5, PalExpo, Geneva.

The Ford Vignale line-up will be joined on the Ford stand from March 2 by Ford Performance models, and the new Ford Kuga sport utility vehicle making its European motor show debut.

Building stuff in the UK is making a comeback

THE decision by Aston Martin to build its next car – the DBX – in Wales could start a trend to return manufacturing and the jobs they create to the UK, according to a leading industry commentator.

Christian Stadler, Professor of Strategic Management at Warwick Business School, said: "The Aston Martin decision is in line with a broader trend: labour cost is no longer the main consideration. Smart companies are particularly wary of the implications in terms of quality and image. We have seen something similar for example when Porsche decided to produce the Porsche Cayenne in Germany rather than US (ie close to the customer) or in Eastern Europe (ie lower costs).

"Aston Martin's value proposition is a very expensive, up-marked car that is quintessentially British. So producing the car outside the UK would have threatened this.

"Of course there are challenges ahead however: Aston Martin is a small independent car producer. It lacks the marketing power of JLR who has the support of Tata. That showed in the aftermath of the financial crisis where it did not do as well as other luxury car makers. The new investment won't deal with this structural issue. The new investment is helpful though in the sense that an attractive new product will come to market quickly. Constant updating of product pipeline is crucial in the industry."

The luxury marque will build its new DBX model at a plant in St Athan in the Vale of Glamorgan from 2020 following a worldwide search for a new manufacturing facility.

The plant will be Aston Martin's second factory and will create an estimated 1,000 jobs in the wider supply chain and local businesses.

The firm is famous for the sporty models associated with 007, and Daniel Craig drove an Aston DB10 in the latest Bond movie Spectre.

Aston Martin's chief executive Andrew Palmer said: "During our 103-year history, Aston Martin has become famous for making beautiful hand-crafted cars in England.

"Through a detailed evaluation of over 20 potential global locations for this new manufacturing facility, we were consistently impressed with the focus on quality, cost and speed from the Welsh Government team.

"As a great British company, we look forward to

THE ASTON MARTIN DBX: Will be built in Wales

St Athan joining Gaydon as our second centre of hand-crafted manufacturing excellence."

First Minister Carwyn Jones said: "Our success today is testament to the reputation, dedication and skills of the Welsh workforce, all qualities that are synonymous with such a luxury, hand-crafted brand as Aston Martin."

Economy Minister Edwina Hart said the plant making the DBX would mean cars rolling off a production line in Wales for the first time in almost 50 years.

THE ONLY WAY: Has to be the up!

Snappy new up! due on sale late summer

VOLKSWAGEN has unveiled the new version of the up! – due on sale in late summer – at the Geneva Motor Show.

The new 1.0 TSI engine available in the new up! delivers a powerful 66 kW/90 PS. The maximum torque of 160 Nm is available from 1,500rpm. The three-cylinder engine is the first turbo for the up! and the most powerful motor available in the model to date.

It delivers dynamic performance with a top speed of 115mph, and takes just 10 seconds to accelerate to 60mph. This up! even strives to match the driving performance of the first Golf GTI. Its dynamism is paired with high efficiency equating to 102g/km CO<sub>2</sub>, meaning that the up! 1.0 TSI can cover up to 500 miles on a single tank of fuel.

New dashcam will set up drivers' social network

ROADYES, a firm specialising in on-board solutions for vehicles, has unveiled recSMART, its prototype of the world's first connected and social dashcam.

Equipped with built-in GPS and wi-fi, a wide angle camera as well as a micro-SD card, recSMART connects to smartphones and records driving journeys in full HD (high definition).

Unlike other dashcams on the market, recSMART connects directly to smartphones via wi-fi in order to capture, save and share collected data (eg videos, photos, GPS location, distance, time and speed). Being wi-fi enabled, recSMART users can easily control, manage and configure the dashcam settings from their phone.

Once installed, recSMART is fully automated and starts recording in full HD when the engine is turned on. It takes photos and videos simultaneously and saves them in the embedded micro-SD card. To help users avoid manually removing content, recSMART automatically records over the oldest files when its memory card fills up. With its built-in GPS which time-stamps and geo-tags all footages, users have a clear visibility of exactly where and when events occurred. While recording, the integrated gyro sensor is activated to automatically detect shocks in case of sudden braking or collision; making the files secure and non-erasable on the micro-SD card.

Alongside its recording and transmission capabilities, recSMART provides data on vehicle position, speed, time, geo-location and maps.

recSMART has a 140° wide viewing angle for maximum visibility, capturing a wide view of roads, events and landscapes. The footages are securely saved onto the smartphone and stored in the cloud, through the 'Road-Eyes App', a dedicated mobile application compatible with iOS and Android. The application is aimed to be a social network of drivers as well as a platform to share content (eg driving anecdotes, recommended locations, places of interest, routes etc.)

Unlike traditional dashcams, recSMART can easily be removed from its base for photo-taking and filming, making it potentially valuable for evidence in court, insurance settlements and for accident claim reports.

Boris Brault, CEO, RoadEyes, said: "People are hyperconnected nowadays, even while commuting and travelling. As the market was lacking a product that had a unique combination of connectivity, mobility and sociability, we saw an opportunity to create recSMART in response to the needs of this new lifestyle."

"A solution combining product, application and services, recSMART is suitable for both consumers and professionals. This marks a turning point for RoadEyes, as we reposition the company as an Internet of Things (IoT) brand that is creating a content-collecting platform from roads across the globe in order to build a community of connected drivers."

"As part of this repositioning, we are taking a different approach than usual by launching on Kickstarter as the DNA of this project is highly social and we are all about being user-centric," he added.

recSMART comes with an innovative wireless remote button which can be pressed to capture photos and videos without having to manipulate the camera or smartphone.

Haverhill welcome back Brown as new chairman

STEVE Brown has returned to Haverhill Rovers as chairman following the departure of Ali Shulver.

Brown has held the position of chairman at the club in the past but resigned in December 2011.

His return follows a tumultuous period for the club, which included the sacking of player-manager Michael Shinn last month and the departure of several players.

In January, secretary Julie Ankers stood down from her role, so Peter Betts, community football development officer, has taken over as interim secretary.

Football

He said: "Ali stood down because he wants what's best for the club.

"He's come under a lot of pressure and scrutiny since the removal of Michael Shinn as manager. Ultimately, he feels it's time to take the club in a new direction, with fresh ideas and fresh blood."

In returning to Rovers, Brown is joined on the board by local businessman Michael White, and Betts believes both of them will have a lot to offer the club.

He continued: "Steve has good knowledge and experience of the club and the local football scene.

"He's structured, disciplined and professional in his approach and is going to be really good for the club. Michael is also going to bring something to the table.

"They're both local businessmen that have a passion and enthusiasm for football."

Rovers have also confirmed that Mick Reardon will be interim manager, with Tom Donati first-team coach, for the remainder of the season.

And Betts said the club hope to announce the appointment of a new secretary in the next fortnight.

On the pitch, Rovers suffered a disappointing 6-0 defeat at Godmanchester Rovers in the Thurlow Nunn League, Premier Division on Wednesday night.

The game was effectively settled in the first five minutes, as two goals from Luke Brown and one from Lloyd Groves put Godmanchester 3-0 up.

Charlie Bowen made it 4-0 after 21 minutes, before Groves' second made it 5-0 at half time.

Rovers' young and inexperienced side improved in the second half but Austin Diaper made it 6-0 10 minutes from time.

Last Friday, Rovers secured a 2-2 draw at Ipswich Wanderers with goals from Ryan Weaver and Claudio Ofuso.

In the First Division, Haverhill Borough suffered a 2-0 defeat at Ely City, also last Friday night.
